The Kaj-Erik Nordström Award is an award for supporting adult education. It is given by the Västra Nylands folkhögskola, Finland, in recognition of activities aimed at re-engaging adults with learning and developing education for all.

The award is open to individuals who have made an effective, and particularly significant, contribution to the development and promotion of adult education. The award is granted, as far as possible, for activities in keeping with the spirit of the Nikolai Frederik Severin Grundtvig's folk high school movement, and that follow the principles of enlightenment represented in, "education for all" and the "opening up the learning environment to disengaged adults".
